

As a realtor I take great pride in providing my clients with the highest level of service and professionalism. Part of my service involves contracting home inspections for all of my listings as well as for all of my sales. I strongly believe in the doctrine of no surprises and to that end rely upon the expertise of home inspectors to provide both myself and my clients with a comprehensive, objective report.

John Flynn of Global Property Inspections is the ultimate professional. Not only is John exceptionally thorough and meticulous in detailing his findings for his clients, he is also very diligent in providing an unbiased report that includes reporting on all the structural components and operating systems of the property. When John identifies potential problems in his reports he provides his clients with suggestions for their next steps in resolving these issues.

Buying and selling a property is an onerous responsibility. Using a knowledgeable professional like John is a must for anyone serious about making one of the biggest investment decisions in their lives.
